

Steven Marr Conway

Senior Lecturer

BIOGRAPHY

Mr. Steven M. Conway joined the Department of Maritime Administration, Texas A&M University, Galveston Campus in 2006 as an adjunct faculty with the rank of Senior Lecturer while serving as the Director of Information Services for the Galveston Campus. Previously he had taught as an adjunct faculty for the Marine Science program at the Galveston Campus. Steven obtained his MBA from Yale University, School of Management in 1982. In 1980 he received his MS in Marine Biology from the University of Bridgeport and in 1975 he received his BS from the United States Coast Guard Academy. Steven retired from the Coast Guard as a Commander in 1996 after 25 years of service in the Coast Guard in a variety of billets and programs. Steven currently teaches the Management Information Systems course, a Business Leadership course, the Computer Programming and Security course and co-teaches the International Maritime Management Experience Study Abroad course in Greece. He previously taught the Maritime Administration Management of Port Facilities and Port Design graduate courses and co-taught the Offshore Sailing course for the Physical Education department.

RESEARCH/PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE – Since retiring from his full time position as Director of Information Services at the Galveston Campus Steven’s professional experience includes:

- Earning the Texas A&M University Department of Instructional Technology Services Professional Certification in Online Teaching Nov 2014
- Serving as Project Manager for installs of audio/visual/automation control systems and provided management consulting for the audio/video system integration business – Dominant Sight and Sound, Lewisville, TX
- Participant Educause Learning Initiative (ELI) New Orleans Annual Meeting/Conference Jan 2018
- Attended 2015 Texas A&M System Technology Summit-Instructional Technology Track

PUBLICATIONS - None